

Saving the World
in 100 (not so easy) Steps

and

How we pay for all of it

Extracts

The (very long) table of contents is at the end of this document.

Firstly, random quotes from the book:

When you directly link the making of trillions of dollars with the solving of a major global problem, then the issue of whether the problem is real or not never comes up.

Everybody needs to understand that the content of this book is not just some hippies' wish list full of initiatives that we could never do in the real world. This is a list of major global initiatives that we can do right now, and the specifics of how we can pay for all of it.

One way or the other capitalism is about to die and it is the hardcore capitalists that have killed it. If we continue on the same track we will still call it capitalism in thirty years, but it will no longer be capitalism.

Constantly limiting and reducing wages is such a fool's endeavour. When the poor and middle class become poorer, well, just who do you think it is who buys the goods and services that is the foundation of your wealth, not to even mention that if tax receipts are insufficient to maintain infrastructure, well..... This is not rocket science,...

When seeking to fix any of our biggest problems we need to assume that the rich have no empathy, because whether they do or not, they behave as though they don't (good acting performances don't tell the tale, action tells the tale).

We're trying to tame a world here boys and girls, and we can't do it with people screaming "socialism" and "bludgers" in place of reasoned arguments. It's time to raise the tenor of our public interactions, and those who wish to keep dragging us down, well, we'll just have to deal with them as best we can now won't we?

The current crop of Republicans are not ready to govern. They are were as ready to govern in 2017 as George W. Bush and his people were ready to govern in 2000, or any of the eight years that followed.

(NB. I don't view things in terms of good and evil. These next two are from passages that are hoisting them on their own petard; good and evil is how they view things.)

A review of the overall strategy and activities of the 2012 Republicans right across the board, with very few exceptions, actually looks like a senior party official read the book by George Orwell and thought to himself, "we could get elected using this stuff". This is not an exaggeration, even though the way I've put it makes it sound like it is an exaggeration. Goodsex, Crimethink, Goodthink, Blackwhite, Doublethink, Prolefeed, Bellyfeel, Duckspeak; look it all up. They did all of this constantly, and every single day in the final months; in the final month this Newspeak behaviour seemed to be all that they were. If you must choose one or the other, is this GOOD behaviour or is this EVIL. And then we got trump in 2016 to do about “ten” times more of this than Romney and Ryan. That was and continues to be a thing to behold.

When you philosophically oppose the word liberal in its dictionary meaning (and its synonyms), which Republicans do (they throw it around as this supposed insult), then you ARE evil. Don't you guys get that? Good God-fearing Christians my ar$e.

Let us also not forget that the three largest financial crises of the last one hundred years were preceded by two terms of Republican Administrations cutting taxes for the rich on a Herculean scale (1929, 1987, 2008).

Bitches, Ho's, Hookers, Trim, Butterface, yet Bro, My Man, Boy Toy, Babe Magnet. When all the coolest people in the entertainment business are using this vernacular and it's seconded into sitcoms and TV dramas, it works its way into common usage. This sort of misogynistic language doesn't help us move ahead as a species and we need to do everything we can to get rid of it. Why is it cool to call a woman a bitch or a ho? If you're not allowed to call a black guy a n!gger, then why is it okay to call a woman a bitch or a ho?..... Go call your grandmother a skank or a ho to her face and then come back and tell me it's okay.

We've come a long way since Seneca Falls and a long way since the founding of the NWP and the attainment of their primary goal, but we cannot, absolutely CANNOT get all the way to true equality when the country that still sets the global agenda has a two party system, and one of those parties can without any exaggeration be characterized thusly: They ARE the "pat on the head tap on the backside shove this big thing up your vagina before you can have an abortion no you can't have equal pay nor representation on our Congressional Committees (until the media makes a noise about it) Republican Party.

This has been the deficit between what the green movement would like to see happen and the realities of the technology. Some greenies do not help the green cause by continuing to say that it is possible to replace all coal with wind and solar when it obviously isn't in practice.

If there is anybody out there who thinks they know how to solve Climate Change but their solution requires the fossil fuels industry, or rich people generally, to give up some of what they have, then they absolutely, positively, without any shadow of a doubt, no room for ambiguity, DO NOT know how to solve Climate Change.

We normally need to make a choice between making money and helping others. Here, there is a direct and unambiguous connection between relieving human suffering and the making of trillions of dollars; making trillions of dollars by relieving that human suffering. To use the vernacular, this is a multinational corporation's wet dream. They get to make trillions of dollars and be viewed as angels as they're doing it. You don't need to ask the question of whether they will want to do it.

To do a little cross pollinating plagiarism, "This is how the world is fixed in the end, not with a whole lot of sound and fury amounting to nothing but business as usual, with a slight bend".

The world is about to get so much better, and the current generation that is in power only needs to be greedy for money and power in order for all of it to happen; not an exaggeration for effect, a fact of this agenda.

People like to talk about money being the root of all evil, but then they can't really elaborate on what they've just said without "convoluting the hell out of it"; allow me to make it nice and simple, and accurate: The chief evil of money is that it interacts with our sensibilities and our perception of the essentials of a thing to take us away from the truth (fact/reality); that is its primary power; sounds so benign doesn't it.

Only when you see a thing for what it is and not what you hope it is can you actually solve it.

The ideas and behaviour of societies are shaped from the top down, and when the ideas of types like Paul Ryan and Mitt Romney as a driving force in society are finally and rightly consigned to the history books, we're not going to recognise ourselves.

(53. Reforestation of Felled Equatorial Regions) Clearly this is an initiative that can't be implemented in isolation of the others in this book, because doing the right thing from the point of view of benefits in thirty, fifty, one hundred years, when it will cost us money is, what's that word I'm looking for, ummmmm, oh yes, impossible. The other initiatives in this book are going to allow us to collectively add over $100 trillion in capital wealth if we do them, so this initiative then becomes possible.

Some Larger Extracts:

1

Capitalism is Getting Old:

Let it Die

Capitalism is getting old and we do need to just let it die.

The deal breaker, or perhaps more accurately, the deal maker is that whatever we choose to replace it with, must look almost exactly the same as our current system whilst addressing all of our current system's shortcomings. Looking almost the same is how it gets broad acceptance.

Greed has screwed with capitalism and the larger system of economics to such an extent that it is now an untenable system heading into the future. The macro sums don't add up and they haven't for a long time. Far too much money has been taken out of the system over the last thirty years for capitalism to work as it's supposed to.

Higher tax rates are needed to drive capitalism because it makes sure that most of the money keeps circulating through the economy, rather than just being hoarded away into long term holding positions (that create no jobs).

Capital Gains Tax needs to be higher than tax on income or the rich will be far more inclined to, and in practice do, hoard their money away into long term holding positions that again, doesn't create jobs.

In our current capitalist system, all the things we need to do in order to sustain it and allow it to thrive have been abandoned to their opposite in order to secure short term gains. The greed of hardcore capitalists is what destroyed capitalism. Wrap your head around that little truth.

It could be saved in theory but because of what needs to be done in order for it to be saved, it is impossible to save. A short laundry list for your amusement:

1. Capital Gains Tax needs to be well over fifty percent and a lot higher than both Income and Company Tax.

3

Eliminate Currency as a Means of Exchange (not as unlikely as it sounds)

This was initially written into the endlist of twenty, but after deliberation it was moved onto the main list. This initiative is a natural extension to the previous one and what a huge social leap forward for society this would be.

Eliminating currency seems almost impossible to believe at our current stage of development, but is it really that far out of the ballpark:

If we were to move to a lifestyle-based compensation to replace our currency-based compensation, this would have a huge positive impact on a citizen's feeling of security and comfort. Just imagine what your life would be like if you no longer needed to worry about how you were going to pay the bills. Imagine what your life would be like if you didn't need to spend a huge portion of your waking life in concern over money worries. You still work for a living and you still receive compensation equivalent to your current lifestyle (with room to raise it up), but instead of receiving $50,000 a year you have a lifestyle that equates to that. There is no possible downside in this and the main upside is that it doesn't matter if prices go up for something because it is the "item" whatever that item is, that is part of your lifestyle. To put it in plainer terms, if your electricity bill goes up by $200 per quarter for the same usage you've always had, then you don't have to worry about where to get that extra $200. Your lifestyle encompasses, for example, electricity usage where you are blaring the air conditioning night and day and pool cleaner and three computers all running for eight hours a day. Yes, the same thing applies to your mortgage if your rates suddenly go up by $500 per month. To further clarify what I've just said, if we make this changeover from income levels to lifestyle levels, the Discretionary Spending for your lifestyle level remains unaffected by such things. If essentials such as these go up too much inside our current system then your Discretionary Spending disappears and economies slow down. This artificial shooting in the foot would no longer occur and.....

9

Create a $30 Trillion Financial Resource to Help Replace Fossil Fuels

This was originally designed to be implemented inside capitalism and it would take on a somewhat different form if we were to skip straight to the new system of economics and commerce. If both were to be adopted then it is far more likely that this one would be implemented first. There is more than one way to do this, and if it is done, then it is likely we will do it in a different way to how it is going to be described in here.

First and foremost you cannot just create a financial resource of this size if you're then just going to use it for anything and everything. That would blow up the global economy. I'm going to tell you one way this resource can be created (the easiest to explain) but it is important to know that there are two other ways it can be done and these other ways are better ways to do it. The reason this is not being laid out in its entirety is the same reason a lot of the H3 agenda is being held back for now. Until you get a baseline understanding of this "new language" I'm putting forward, the more complex elements of the H3 agenda would almost certainly be misunderstood. There's a lot of this "new language" out in the open already; just be patient; it's all coming.

So it's time for a little secret that the general population doesn't really know at the moment. I do believe it is a secret that even trained economists and MBA holders don't know until they actually get out into the world. We periodically create hundreds of billions, sometimes trillions of dollars, out of thin air. If one wanted to be unkind about it, one could say that we create many billions of dollars out of thin air every single day in the markets; there are no hard assets underpinning the vast majority of this pretend commerce we conduct every hour of every day somewhere in the world.

One way we can create this $30 trillion financial resource is.....

17

Institute an Eight or Ten Year "Regional" Budget Cycle for Under Developed Countries

Inside the move to bring under developed countries up with the rest of us, this is the big one. This is the initiative that allows us to do everything else.

Inside a government budget cycle actions are planned and everything is valued with the assumption that all of those actions will be carried out over the course of the budget. There is no law that says we can't extend that budget cycle to ten years and plan a massive worldwide infrastructure schedule that will almost double the size of the global economy. And even if there was such a law, which there isn't, then we'd just change it. We fiat everything to suit our purposes these days, so why not do something to solve some of the biggest problems in the world, like bringing population growth under control, and fixing Africa completely over the course of the next twenty or so years. We have it within our power to fix everything this century so let's get to it. Are we prokaryote or eukaryote? Are we preening propithecus primates or profound phrenic paragons? Sorry about that but on the upside when I alliterate I don't just use two words, and the propithecus is a good choice for reasons other than alliteration.

The regional reference in the title is not a geographic reference, but an economic reference, or more specifically, every CODIN member country. Each CODIN member country will institute a budget for the cycle duration that is decided upon. Infrastructure budgets will be produced for every country with regard to their specific circumstances, and these budgets will be.....

99

*We Need to Start Recognizing the Difference
Between the Jesters and the Kings.*

In this world a great many individuals in positions of authority will and should be insulted by this initiative, and do not doubt that this is one of the most important items on this list. Because I am putting forward specific details of how to solve many of the world's biggest problems, and in such a way so that the Jester Kings get to make huge sums of money and at the very least maintain their power, they will just have to swallow my opinion of them.

Allow me to begin by pointing out the most obvious of Jesters who was mistaken for a King. This used to be George W. Bush, the 43rd President of the United States, so at least from one perspective Bush 43 must think that trump, the new Jester King, is great. How sad is it that a lot of people reading this book would have thought of trump as soon as they read the title of this initiative?

Let's pivot to celebrity worship for a moment and then go back and complete the point on politicians. Actors, modern fiction writers, musicians, and entertainers generally, are the current versions of Jesters (with no insult intended in this case); understand that the term Jester King is not one I'm applying to this group, I'm simply making the point that the general population are mistaking one for the other in this group. We have mistaken these people for the Alpha Males and Alpha Females, and they are mere entertainers; they are the Jesters and we have mistaken them for Kings; we have mistaken them for our highest ideal, and if that be our highest ideal then our highest ideal will take us back into the trees. Now it's hard not to read that as an insult (even though it isn't), but if you are an actor or a musician and you honestly think that you represent the best of humanity (which is what Alphas are supposed to be from an evolutionary point of view), then you've got much bigger problems than a perceived sideswipe coming from me.

When 50% of the population in the United States looked at George W Bush, twice, and thought they saw a "King", WOW. When we are seeking out "highest ideal" and we choose "lowest common denominator" then we have a long way to go. And of course sixteen years down the track America has gotten worse on this score because a full 46% of those who voted, voted for trump. Hillary Clinton got 48% of the vote, and in any other US election this would have translated into an Electoral College win, which is the system they have in America. Back onto the main point in all of this, which is, trump is both ignorant and stupid (yes, stupid) about all the things he needs to know about in order to be the US President, and so much so that he is the exact sort of person, in EVERY way, for which the term Clown was originally invented as a term to describe a leader. He is the definitive Clown President who knows nothing, nor does he even know how to behave in his new role, and yet a full 46% of the voting public in America looked at him and thought they saw a King. In this space in 2013 I compared Mitt Romney to a twelfth century English King, the allusion being to reference what Kings were like before the Magna Carta; and I suppose the allusion to a pre-Magna Carta English King holds for trump as well, but he's less of Henry or Richard and more of Ethelred the Unready; in an odd coincidence he was twelve or thirteen when he took over too; there are far more allusions to draw with this King than the name and the age at which he took power: he was chosen to rule instead of someone who was smarter and better prepared, paying tributes to the enemy, erratic behaviour that damaged foreign relations, came to power under an aura of suspicion and mistrust, famous for money, thought he could buy his way out of problems that then came back to bite him on the arse; I declare thee, President Ethelred the Unready.

This issue of Jesters and Kings has become so cloudy for us these days that we can't see which politicians are the Jesters and which are the Kings. There are very few actual Kings amongst politicians, and unfortunately for those on the Right wing of politics, it doesn't count for the purpose of this entry if a person would make a good twelfth century English King; we're looking for slightly higher standards than that. Paul Keating in Australia was one of those Kings, Barney Frank was and Bernie Sanders is one of those Kings, I think Amy Klobuchar might be one, and Sherrod Brown too (maybe).

WHAT DOES IT FIX:

When we get to a point where something over forty percent of the population can see the difference between the Jesters and the Kings in this world, oh boy are we going to see a difference. The ideas and behaviour of societies are shaped from the top down, and when the ideas of types like Paul Ryan and trump ("ideas" in the case of trump) as a driving force in society are finally and rightly consigned to the history books, we're not going to recognise ourselves. The people who carry on about liberalism being a dirty word or something bad don't realize how much they are bad mouthing themselves, and just how much they are painting themselves as Jesters (and pandering to the very lowest common denominator); I thought these guys were supposed to be admirers of Jesus, who was the biggest Liberal of all. That's how lost a Paul Ryan, a Pence or a McConnell and all of their followers are in this world (trump doesn't get a mention here because he's a bit too much of the Duckspeak, and there's no getting lost if you don't know where you're going in the first place). These hard Right politicians get so lost because when you have vast numbers of people who fall for your shtick, shtick that is mostly based on flat out lies, it encourages you ever further, and the circle, or bubble, just goes round and round and round, constantly feeding itself. They are little boys and for the time being we all have to pay for them having not grown up, but it won't always be like that. I don't think it serves any purpose to estimate how many people can see the difference between the Jesters and the Kings today. I wouldn't mind betting that over ninety percent of the population believe they can, and who am I to challenge that belief.

www.h3hq.org

Table of Contents:

100 Realistic Ways To “Save the World”

One	31
Capitalism is Getting Old: Let it Die
Two	38
Eliminate the Use of Coin and “Paper” Currency in Favour of Exclusive Use of Ultra-Secure Plastic
Three	42
Eliminate Currency as a Means of Exchange (not as unlikely as it sounds)
Four	47
Introduce a New System of Economics and Commerce
Five	58
Adopt a Minimum Lifestyle Provision
Six	63
Accelerated Schedule for Adding New Energy Infrastructure Around the World
Seven	69
Large Scale Infrastructure Upgrade in Rural Communities across the Globe

Eight	72
Large Scale Infrastructure Upgrade in Urban Communities across the Globe
Nine	77
Create a $30 Trillion Financial Resource to Help Replace Fossil Fuels
Ten	81
Develop New Commerce to Make Use of this $30 Trillion Financial Resource.
Eleven	84
Make Small Alterations to Government Economies to Allow for Use of this Massive Financial Resource
Twelve	89
Replace Existing Energy Technology with Emission-Free Technology
Thirteen	91
Deliver New Commerce to the Fossil Fuels Industry to Replace Loss of Fossil Fuels Revenue
Fourteen	96
Massive Agenda of Initiatives to Bring Under Developed Countries up with the Rest of us
Fifteen	100
Economic Re-organization of Under-Developed Countries

Sixteen	103
Establish a New Major International Organization to Support Development in Under Developed Countries
Seventeen	107
Institute an Eight or Ten Year “Regional” Budget Cycle for Under Developed Countries
Eighteen	109
Increase in Transportation Infrastructure Across the African Continent
Nineteen	111
Initiate a Specific Agenda of Commerce that Will Feed Everybody on this Planet
Twenty	114
Establish Permanent Agricultural Infrastructure in Under Developed Countries
Twenty-One	117
Major Hydro-Environmental Projects in Africa
Twenty-Two	119
Increase Civil Infrastructure in Under Developed Countries
Twenty-Three	121
Create an Insulated “Regional” Economy for Under Developed Countries

- Twenty-Four 123
National/Regional Corporate Licences to Produce Goods Inside the Under Developed Countries
- Twenty-Five 125
Seed About Five Hundred
Separate Peace Movements
in Under Developed Countries
- Twenty-Six 127
Invite Warlords to Participate in Legitimate
Commerce in Under Developed Countries
- Twenty-Seven 129
Conciliatory Government Outreach to Ethnic Groups for Law and Order
Issues in Under Developed Countries
- Twenty-Eight 132
Large Scale “Religious Education”
Program in Under Developed Countries
- Twenty-Nine 137
Education is a, Well,
Everybody Already Knows....
- Thirty 143
Introduce a New Climate Change
Agreement that all Governments will Want to do

Thirty-One	146
Switch in Focus Away from Limiting Fossil Fuels Emissions
Thirty-Two	148
Establish a Worldwide Afforestation Movement
Thirty-Three	150
Establish Research Organizations for New Energy Technologies with a New Structure and Focus
Thirty-Four	154
Establish New Research Organizations to Focus on Balancing Reforms
Thirty-Five	160
Re-organize the Global Forest Industries
Thirty-Six	162
Create a Single Large Forestry Organization to Oversee the Global Forest Industries
Thirty-Seven	166
Create 200 Million Hectares of Plantation Forestry in Sub-Saharan Africa
Thirty-Eight	168
Create 40 Million Hectares of Plantation Forestry in Outback Australia

Thirty-Nine Major Hydro-Environmental Projects in Australia	170
Forty Adjust Government Economies to Allow for Changes in the Global Forest Industries	172
Forty-One Introduce a Global Seedlings Program to Assist the Forestry Reform	174
Forty-Two Higher Focus on Meat Production without Grazing or Farming	176
Forty-Three Create a Global Fishing Industry Stewardship Infrastructure	181
Forty-Four Create a New UN Agency to Oversee the Changes in the Global Fishing Industry	184
Forty-Five Create Five New Multinational Corporations with Exclusive Rights to Fish the Oceans	186
Forty-Six Replenish the World's Fish Stocks with Huge Open Ocean Aquaculture Initiatives	188

Forty-Seven	191
Re-organize the International Whaling Commission
Forty-Eight	193
Implement New Technology to Clean up the Mass of Garbage in our Oceans
Forty-Nine	195
“Take Over” the Black Markets for Primary Produce Sourced from the Environment
Fifty	198
Refill the Aral Sea
Fifty-One	202
Re-establish the Aral Sea Fishing Industry
Fifty-Two	204
Reclaim Approximately 6 Million Square Kilometres of Desert Land from the Arabian Peninsula and The Sahara for Agriculture
Fifty-Three	207
Reforestation of Felled Equatorial Forest Regions
Fifty-Four	210
Large Scale Geo-Engineering Activities to Impact Regional Climates

Fifty-Five	212
Ubiquitous CCTV Infrastructure for Law Enforcement
Fifty-Six	217
Personal Data Recorder for Police Officers
Fifty-Seven	220
Law Enforcement Modernization
Fifty-Eight	222
New Law Enforcement Legislation for Organized Crime
Fifty-Nine	224
Turn Prisons and Imprisonment into a True Deterrent (yes it absolutely can be done).
Sixty	229
Global Reform of Judicial Systems Away from the Adversarial
Sixty-One	233
Underground Initiative on a Massive Scale to Deal with the Issue of Paedophilia
Sixty-Two	235
Ongoing Commentary in the Media About Religion in Developed Countries
Sixty-Three	239
Modest Change to the UN General Assembly

Sixty-Four	243
Major Overhaul of the UN Security Council
Sixty-Five	245
Complete Change to How the UN is Funded
Sixty-Six	247
Relocation of the United Nations Organization into a New International Territory
Sixty-Seven	251
Wholesale Reform of World Bank and IMF Processes Towards Broad Consultation
Sixty-Eight	253
A Fundamental Shift in Agriculture Around the Globe from Mechanized to Advanced
Sixty-Nine	257
Convening of a Non-State Grass Roots Congress in the Middle East
Seventy	260
Annual Conference on Public Administration held for Middle East Countries to be Hosted by the French Government in France
Seventy-One	262
Annual Congress on Local Government Issues Across the Middle East Hosted by the German Government in Germany

Seventy-Two 264

Annual Congress of Community Organisations
Across the Middle East Hosted by Jordan

Seventy-Three 266

Around Fifty Major Annual
Small Business Conferences for the Middle East, all Hosted by Different Countries

Seventy-Four 268

Seeding About Fifty Major Peace Movements
Throughout the Middle East

Seventy-Five 269

Mainstream Assimilation of the Idea that All Politics is Local Politics

Seventy-Six

Many Many Others for the Middle East

271

Seventy-Seven 272

The Republican Party in the United States
Needs to be Reformed or Replaced

Seventy-Eight 280

Overt Intervention into Party Politics
in all Developed Nations

Seventy-Nine 288

Time to Address the Extreme Right Wing
in US Politics and Society

Eighty Establishing a Global Treaty for Corporate Criminal and Civil Liability	290
Eighty-One Proactive Shift in the Common American Vernacular	293
Eighty-Two Leading by Example in Anti-Misogyny	295
Eighty-Three China Joins the Rest of the Developed World by Adopting an Intermediate Democracy	297
Eighty-Four Immediate Replacement of China's Electricity Generating Power Plants	299
Eighty-Five China Approach North Korea With a Labour and Trade Sharing Agreement	300
Eighty-Six Extensive Lobbying to North Korea from Neutral Sources for them to Adopt a Heavily Diluted Intermediate Democracy	302
Eighty-Seven International Program to Greatly Reduce the Production of Paper Books	304
Eighty-Eight Private International Corporate Treaty on the Production of Plastic Bags	307

Eighty-Nine International Treaty Regulating the Production of Plastic Bags	310
Ninety Substantial Increase in Recycling Operations	311
Ninety-One Establish a Massive Toxic Waste Treatment Plant on Every Continent	313
Ninety-Two Ramping up of Construction Materials Research	317
Ninety-Three Worldwide Publicity Campaign on Control of Population Growth (not what you think)	318
Ninety-Four Creation of Significant World Government Movements Throughout the World	321
Ninety-Five Creation of Officially Sanctioned Faux World Governing Council (a trial run)	324
Ninety-Six Advanced Technologies Research Re-alignment	327
Ninety-Seven Creation of New Mechanized Armed Forces in all Developed Countries	330

Ninety-Eight 332
Creation of a New International Space Agency

Ninety-Nine 335
We Need to Start Recognizing the Difference
Between the Jesters and the Kings.

One Hundred 338
Who Holds the Power in this World

One Hundred and One 339
Move Towards Gender Equality in the Developed World

*Twenty Unrealistic Ways
To “Save the World”*

One 345
Introduce a New Democratic System that Will Eliminate the Party System

Two 346
Introduce a New Method for Selecting Candidates for Political Office

Three 349
Introduce a Single Term Limit for all
Politicians in Developed Countries

Four	351
Create a Level Playing Field in Political Races
Five	352
Seed Two Completely New Political Parties in the United States
Six	353
Create a New Form of National Military Service Draft in the United States
Seven	356
Legalize Recreational Drug Use in all Countries
Eight	358
Legalize Prostitution
Nine	360
Focus on Traditional Activist Methodology to Drive Political Change
Ten	361
Lobby Governments all Over the World for a Phased Reduction in Greenhouse Gas Emissions
Eleven	363
Regulate Greenhouse Gas Emissions Through a System of Carbon Trading
Twelve	364
Phased Replacement of Electricity Infrastructure With 2012 Suite of Renewable Technology

Thirteen	366
Negotiate with Rich People to Give up Money and Power to Make Environmental or Other Social Problems Better
Fourteen	367
Regulate Population Growth Through Restrictive Legislation
Fifteen	368
Institute Restrictive Legislation to Regulate the Banking and Finance Industries
Sixteen	370
Continue on with a System of Moratoriums and Protectorates to Mitigate Overfishing
Seventeen	371
Increased Investment in Aquaculture to Compensate for Overfishing
Eighteen	373
Organize a State Level Negotiation to Fix the Middle East
Nineteen	374
Change the US Constitution
Twenty	375
In Practice, Let Us Continue to Put off Effective Action to Give Our Children Something to do in Thirty Years

Introduction	25
Second Group Intro	343
The H3 Agenda	377
Glossary	381
Excised Passages	393
Corrigenda	399
Epilogue	405

www.h3hq.org